

When youth have a passion for animals, the 4-H Market Goat Project provides a great opportunity to explore their interest. From judging contests and visual presentations to showing market goats or commercial meat goat does, 4-H'ers can participate in aspects of the project with or without owning meat goats.

The project teaches animal husbandry including selecting, feeding, managing, and marketing of meat goats. Developing teamwork, responsibility, and decision-making alongside both animals and people is unique to the livestock program experience. Hobbies or careers in animal agriculture enable utilization of these lifelong skills and project mastery.

4-H Thrive

Positive Youth Development

Developing Competence

Adults create environments where youth can develop competence in their chosen project area.

Building Confidence

Youth build confidence as they learn to think for themselves, build mastery, and are recognized for their efforts.

Nurturing Caring

Adults nurture a caring environment where mutual trust between youth and adults is established. Caring relationships with adults are key to resilient youth.

Finding Connection

Youth build solid connections which are critical to their well-being.

Forming Character

Create a community where youth play an active role in developing their character.

Determining Contribution

Youth actively contribute to their clubs and communities.

Starting Out Beginner

Starting a livestock project is exciting and challenging! There is so much to learn!

Join a 4-H livestock club to meet knowledgeable, experienced mentors and friends.

Volunteer at your county show.

Develop visual presentations to learn about topics like animal health and handling, then share them with your club and in competitions.

Learning More Intermediate

Put your knowledge into practice by competing in contests and purchasing an animal.

Join your livestock or meats judging teams.

Buy a market goat and present it at your county, district, and state shows.

Explore complex topics for visual presentations such as genetics, reproduction, and nutrition.

Document project activities and goals in your record book.

Exploring Depth Advanced

Advance your showmanship to the next level competing in regional and national shows.

Expand your learning to multiple species with the livestock bowl.

Showcase your skills in the Meat Goat Premier Exhibitor competition.

Share your project experience with beginners.

Use your project record book to review average daily gains, costs, and other project milestones.
